

The quality criteria for the traceability unit of measurement [Pa]

*Alexei PIANÎH,
National Institute of Metrology*

This paper characterizes the national standard unit of pressure, emphasizing the innovative technical features, reliability, high stability and sustainable over time. It pursues the objective of confirming confidence in its measurement capabilities and their relevance. It describes all quality criteria to be recorded for quality assurance measurement results as required by international recommendations.